Global finalists

Lucia Caruezo Argentina

University: Torcuato di Tella University
Degree: Bachelors, Business and Managerial Economics

I am passionate about data analysis and business strategy and believe strongly in generating impact for society through corporate social responsibility initiatives and community projects.

I love traveling, discovering new cultures and was fortunate to take part in an exchange at The George Washington University.

Anna Zyla Austria

University: Vienna University of Economics and Business
Degree: Masters, International Management

I just started my CEMS (Community of European Management Schools and International Companies) master's program in International Management. I enjoy trying out new sports, right now I am into badminton!

I speak German, Polish, English, and Russian. My curiosity drives me to explore new cultures, having lived in Germany, South Korea, Ireland, and soon, the Netherlands.

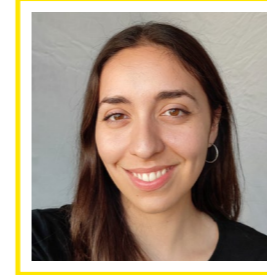

Mariana Nakasone Shiruo
Brazil

University: Fundacao Getulio Vargas
Degree: Bachelors, Business Administration

After 4 years working as an intern and analyst in finance, I understand the importance of having an entrepreneurial spirit, which to me means that you always have something to learn and that's why it's important to always surround yourself with inspirational people. Through volunteering, I learned the importance and value of teamwork.

Last year, I started an experience that I never imagined myself in before: backpacking around the world. I'm glad to say that visited 14 new countries in 3 continents. Back in my hometown this year, I'm excited to start my career at EY in December.

Florencia Jara
Chile

University: Adolfo Ibáñez University
Degree: Masters, Commercial Engineering and Finance

I'm a multifaceted individual with a strong passion for design, architecture, physics, and music. My journey includes serving as a missionary in southern Chile and studying abroad in Münster, Germany.

I have personal aspirations to immerse myself in various cultures by living in different countries, releasing a music album, starting a family, and writing a book. I'm multilingual in English, German, Spanish, and a bit of Portuguese.

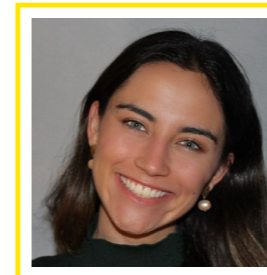

Karina Bishop
CESA Region

University: University of York
Degree: Bachelors, Business Administration and Management

I am originally from Lithuania and currently living in York, UK going into my third year studying Business Management. I am bilingual in English and Lithuanian and enjoy bike riding and reading. My favorite food is sushi.

My fun fact: I once met Queen Elizabeth II.

Juliana Páez Vélez
Colombia

University: University of the Andes
Degree: Bachelors, Business Administration and Management

I have a strong desire to help and am driven to make people's lives better. I want to be a dream maker, or in other words, help people accomplish their goals while working hard for my own. I want to excel in my field to make my younger self proud, as well as to inspire young ladies to dream big. I have focused my studies on Finance, and I think it is a great tool for making things, and dreams come to life. I want to learn more languages to connect with more people, their stories, and their dreams.

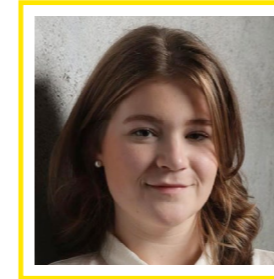

Jasmin Sofia Andersson
Denmark

University: Copenhagen Business School
Degree: Masters, Economics and Business Administration

I am a curious, ambitious, and organized business student with solid analytical skills and a keen desire to continuously learn and grow. My academic background is in international business, strategy and leadership with a focus on Asian markets.

I enjoy studying Chinese and have a general interest in East Asian cultures and languages. It may not surprise you to learn that my favorite food is noodle soup and I always find a way to include sesame in my cooking.

Carina Geuer
Germany

University: The University of Bonn
Degree: Bachelors, Economics

I have a Bachelor's degree in Economics and am currently on my gap year. In my free time I like to do sports, I play tennis and go running. I love skiing in winter and spending time in nature. I also love traveling, meeting new people and seeing other cultures, especially Asia fascinates me. I also love spending time with my family and friends.

After my Master's degree, I would like to work in strategy consulting and am aiming for a career as a management consultant. I find everything to do with HR consulting particularly interesting.

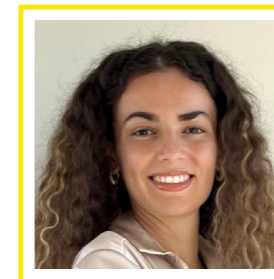

Mia Seppänen
Finland

University: Aalto University
Degree: Masters, Economics and Business Administration

My academic background is in economics, with a broad range of minor studies. During my BSc I completed an international minor, with an exchange semester in Canada. During my MSc, my focus has been in business law and finance. I have completed internships at Intrum and Deloitte, and I'm currently working at the FCCA in merger control and cartel screening.

My dream is to work in an international environment where I get to solve complex problems that businesses and societies face in the changing economic environment. I certainly would not mind working abroad for a while!

Angeliki Bogiatzi
Greece

University: Athens University of Economics and Business
Degree: Masters, Business Administration

MBA student with a background in Accounting and Finance. Passionate about hip hop, photography, and travel. Always eager to learn and grow!

Last summer, I spent three weeks in Chengdu, China, through a program via my university focused on sustainability and green innovation, where I learned about eco-friendly practices and cultural diversity

My career aspirations are to build a successful career in strategy, helping organizations navigate challenges and achieve their goals.

Sneha Agarwal India

University: Christ University
Degree: Bachelors, Economics

Growing up, I had the privilege of learning to live and learn from the most inspiring and aspirational people that are found in small emerging towns. Like all young adults, I eventually moved out to study and build an identity of my own.

Currently, I am majoring in Economics at Christ University, Bengaluru, India. Everything about the subject always fascinated me in high-school and it's real-world application makes every day at university as interesting it can get. I am working towards making it in Finance and Consulting. Work aside, interacting with people and traveling in groups brings me joy like nothing could ever. I love to lead every team that I am a part of and preach to lead with love and belongingness. We swim or sink together.

Giorgia Tolomei Italy

University: Nova School of Business and Economics
Degree: Masters, Management Strategy and International Business

I'm currently in the final year of my master's in management, specializing in international business and strategy. One of my greatest passions is photography, which means if you join me at a museum or in a new city, prepare for some serious picture-taking sessions! Our adventure may take twice as long, but those memories will be worth it!

I'm also a proud half-marathoner, constantly training for my next race. When I'm not running or snapping photos, you'll find me cooking in the kitchen or roaming flea markets, hunting for unique treasures and local gems.

Ephrata Yosef Ireland

University: University College Cork
Degree: Bachelors, Commerce

I am currently in my final year studying Commerce at UCC, Ireland. I recently completed 6 months of work placement at EY Cork which gave me an insight to what the work in Strategy and Transactions entails.

I am the eldest in a family of five and my main interests include travelling and acting. I would consider myself a cinephile as I adore the art of cinema. I am very family oriented and love to make my family proud!

Haifa Mohammed Alsayel MENA Region

University: Prince Sultan University
Degree: Bachelors, Law

My name is Haifa Alsayel, and I hold a Law degree with a focus on International Law from Prince Sultan University. During my studies, I actively participated in Model United Nations (MUN) conferences and debate competitions, which honed my skills in diplomacy, public speaking, and critical thinking.

I began my professional journey at EY as an intern, where I gained invaluable experience over a period of seven months. This internship provided me with a solid foundation in various aspects of the business and allowed me to develop a deep understanding of the industry. Following my internship, I transitioned to a full-time Analyst role, where I continue to apply and expand my knowledge and skills. Outside of work, I have a passion for photography and art.

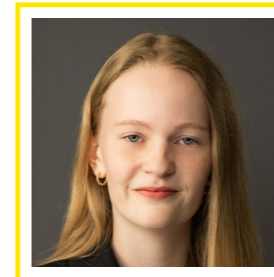

Erika Maraboto
Mexico

University: Monterrey Institute of Technology
Degree: Masters, Business Management

I'm a Global Business grad who fuses creativity with her passion for learning. I'm now pursuing an MBA in management of luxury companies at Monterrey Institute of Technology.

I have lived in three different countries including Canada, USA and France. My professional aspiration includes working in a global company, particularly in Canada, for its culture and quality of life. I aspire to be a key figure in the business world.

Millicent Coburn
Oceania Region

University: The University of Queensland
Degree: Bachelors, Advanced Finance and Economics

I'm currently studying finance and economics at the University of Queensland in Australia and working part time at BDO in tax deal advisory. I would like to one day work in finance, but am still exploring the wide variety of opportunities available in the field.

Outside of my studies and work, I enjoy playing the harp, reading, and spending time with my dogs.

Julie Hatakka
Norway

University: Norwegian School of Economics
Degree: Masters, Economics and Business Administration

I'm pursuing a master's degree at the Norwegian School of Economics (NHH), majoring in finance. Besides my studies I work part time as a customer advisor in a bank.

I love travelling, being social and getting to know new people. Back in Norway, I like to work out and go hiking. I'm also a part of NHH's bowling team, so there's also a bit of bowling now and then.

My fun fact: I have been a girl scout for 10 years.

Paula Maqueira
Peru

University: The University of the Pacific
Degree: Bachelors, Business Engineering

I'm a Business Engineering student at Universidad del Pacífico, pursuing a double degree in Management and Digital Innovation with the University of London. I'm passionate about project management, supply chain, innovation, and strategy. I recently started a full-time role at EY in SaT - Infrastructure, where I love the work because it allows me to contribute to the development of my region.

Outside of academics, I enjoy discovering new restaurants, traveling, and going for walks to unwind. I'm also driven to share knowledge (I'd love to teach in the future!) and do volunteer work, as I love giving back to my community.

Lara Forte
Portugal

University: School of Economics and Management, University of Porto
Degree: Bachelors, Economics

At university, I participate in several student associations in the fields of finance and business strategy (through case studies), and I've grown very fond of both topics.

I'm currently taking a break from university and doing an internship at SONAE MC, in the E-commerce department, more specifically in the Conversion Rate Optimization team. I'm developing my skills and learning about interesting topics while getting my first corporate experience.

In the future I would like to continue my education abroad through a master's program to deepen my knowledge in strategic management topics. I already spent a semester abroad studying at Charles University in Prague, Czech Republic. Traveling is one of my biggest passions and I'm really looking forward to being able to do it more often in the future.

Devon Cheng Zhi Tung
Singapore

University: National University of Singapore
Degree: Bachelors, Business Administration

Earnest learner. Dance lover. Inquisitive nature. An anthophile who enjoys blending the arts and science in finance.

In the near term, my career aspirations include a role in investment banking or private equity, somewhere in finance and transactions.

Fun fact: I once kicked a snake by accident while being on a run.

Maria Cuadrado Sobrini
Spain

University: Comillas Pontifical University
Degree: Bachelors, Business Administration

As a dynamic individual, I'm committed to exploring ways to integrate sustainable practices and ethical considerations into business strategies which reflecting my appreciation of responsible leadership.

I feel genuinely enthusiastic about building a career in consulting, a field that aligns with my professional goals and personal values. One day, I aspire to establish a non-profit organization that supports and empowers individuals in their endeavors.

Francesca Alessandri
Switzerland

University: University of St. Gallen
Degree: Masters, Accounting

I'm originally from Italy but have been living in Switzerland for about 1.5 years to complete my master's in accounting and finance at St. Gallen University. I've joined EY SaT in the Zurich office in September becoming part of the Transaction Diligence team and have been very busy since between learning new things on the job, writing my master thesis and learning German.

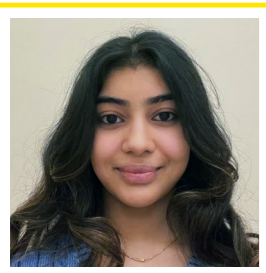

Dominique Presseisen
The Netherlands

University: TIAS School of Business and Society
Degree: Masters, Business Administration

After completing my bachelor’s degree in Biopharmaceutical Sciences, I moved to Amsterdam, where I recently completed my master’s degree in business administration. Currently, I’m interning at Teva Pharmaceuticals, one of the largest drug manufacturers globally, where I’m involved in commercial strategy for the European market. This experience has deepened my passion for the biopharmaceutical industry, especially in the areas of marketing and strategy. I’m eager to build a career that combines my background in biopharmaceutical sciences with my interest in business, and I’m particularly drawn to roles that focus on healthcare, life sciences, and innovative solutions.

Looking ahead, I am excited to continue my career on an international scale, contributing to advancements in healthcare and making a meaningful impact on global well-being. Outside of work, I love traveling, exploring nature, enjoying good food, and spending time with family and friends.

Lydia Sebastian
United Kingdom

University: Imperial College London
Degree: Bachelors, Physics

I’m a third-year physics student with a specific interest in quantum physics.

I’m all about helping others through strategy consulting, making a positive difference, and creating a real impact through the work I do.

Outside of academics, I love reading, singing and skiing. You’ll often find me engrossed in a gripping detective novel or cheering on my favorite football team Manchester United during the weekends.

Mayukha Ragimanu
United States

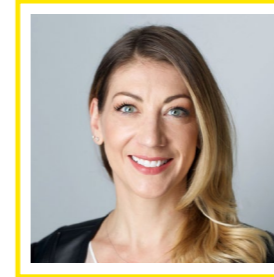

University: Rutgers University
Degree: Bachelors, Finance and Business Analytics and Information Technology

I'm a third-year finance & business analytics student at Rutgers University and am hoping to pursue a financial analytics role with a focus in technology in the future!

I've had a keen passion in fine arts from my childhood, especially singing and learning the violin, and hope to carry that forward as I continue my professional journey.

My favorite ways to unwind are listening to true-crime podcasts while I relax on the couch, or embroider wildflowers and animals to add to a collection I've grown in the past few years.

Women. Fast forward

At EY, we believe gender equity is not just a program to solve; it is the solution to society's most complex issues. That is why we created our global platform, Women. Fast forward.

Women. Fast forward engage our people, clients, and communities to accelerate gender equity in society. The platform aligns all EY gender-focused efforts, from global programs to grassroots initiatives, to drive collective impact. This coordinated effort aims to create opportunities to close the gender gaps in three strategic areas: Entrepreneurship, Leadership, and the Next Generation.

EY NextGen Women is a key commitment undertaken by the EY organization to expedite gender equity as part of our Women. Fast forward platform. Additional flagship programs include:

EY Entrepreneurial Winning Women™

Since 2008, the annual EY Entrepreneurial Winning Women™ program has welcomed a group of exceptional entrepreneurs and committed to empowering their long-term growth. The program connects participants with access to networks, mentorship, and resources required to sustainably scale their businesses.

The program now boasts a thriving global community of more than 900 entrepreneurs across 55 countries – all working to build inclusive businesses and solve complex business issues. At every stage, from program entry to our alumnae community, we aim to leverage EY platforms to spotlight the individual entrepreneurs' stories and generate game-changing visibility for their businesses.

EY POWER UP™

Moving the needle for gender equity around the world begins in the workplace.

EY POWER Up™ is an experience-led journey focused on addressing barriers to gender equity while developing personal leadership and aligning allies to empower women in the workplace. We facilitate conversations for some of our most prestigious clients to empower a diverse workforce and drive lasting organizational change.

"Highly engaging and impactful! POWER Up not only provided great forums to raise awareness and offer valuable toolkits for success but also helped bring a community of women professionals closer." – Ananta Batra, Director, Starbucks Coffee Company.

EY STEM App™

EY STEM App is an innovative gamified mobile platform for girls aged 13-18 that aims to identify, inspire, and empower the next generation of girls in STEM to create a more equal future.

An initial successful pilot of the App engaged 7000+ girls across New Delhi, Seattle, and Atlanta. Now, the EY STEM App is live in 16 countries, has over 48,500 users, and has contributed over 46 million minutes to the UN Global Sustainability Development Goals.

We also created an ecosystem of governments, content providers, schools, and non-profit organizations to spark engagement, cross-collaboration, and quickly scale our impact.
